First Nations University of Canada Inc.

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of First Nations University of Canada Inc., which comprise the statement of financial position as at March 31, 2018, and the statements of operations and changes in fund balances and cash flows for the year then ended, and a summary of significant accounting policies and other explanatory information.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations, and for such internal control as management determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Opinion

In our opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of First Nations University of Canada Inc. as at March 31, 2018, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations.

1. PURPOSE OF ORGANIZATION

The First Nations University of Canada Inc. (the "University") is a First Nations controlled, post-secondary educational institution providing educational opportunities to both First Nations and non-First Nations students. It is incorporated under the Non-profit Corporations Act of Saskatchewan.

The University's mission is to enhance the quality of life, and to preserve, protect, and interpret the history, language, culture, and artistic heritage of First Nations.

The University is a registered charity under the Income Tax Act (Canada) and accordingly is exempt from income taxes.

2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The financial statements for the year ended March 31, 2018 have been prepared in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations outlined in Part III of the CPA Canada Handbook. The following summary of significant accounting policies contains a description of the accounting methods and practices that are used by the University:

a) Fund accounting

The University follows the restricted fund method of accounting for contributions. Under fund accounting, resources are classified for accounting and reporting purposes into funds in accordance with specified activities or objectives.

The statement of operations and changes in fund balances shows the total revenues and expenses of the University after elimination of interfund transactions with ancillary and internal cost recoveries. The University has classified accounts with similar characteristics into major funds as follows:

The General Fund

The General Fund accounts for the University's program delivery, service and administrative activities. This fund reports unrestricted contributions and revenue, as well as restricted contributions for the purchase of capital assets and funds restricted for special projects..

The Endowment Fund

The Endowment Fund reports permanently restricted contributions and revenue that are subject to externally imposed restrictions stating that the resources contribution are to be maintained permanently.

The Restricted Fund

The Restricted Fund reports only restricted resources that are to be used for specific purposes. The Restricted Fund is further classified as Research and Trust.

The Research Fund records revenue and expenses specifically restricted for research projects as identified by the granting agencies, research institutions and other public and private organizations.

The Trust Fund consists of both internally and externally restricted resources that may be used in their entirety within the restrictions established by the provider of the funds or the Board of Governors. These funds are restricted for the provision of scholarships, student initiatives, traditional knowledge and campus improvements and promotions.

b) Capital assets

Purchased capital assets are recorded at cost. Contributed capital assets are recorded at fair value at the date of contribution. Repairs and maintenance costs are charged to expense. Betterments, which extend the estimated life of an asset, are capitalized. When an item of capital asset no longer contribute to the University's ability to provide services, its carrying amount is written down to its residual value.

Capital assets are amortized on a straight line basis over their estimated useful lives as follows:

Building	40 years
Furniture, fixtures and equipment	8 years
Computer equipment	4 years
Leasehold improvements	5 years
Library	10 years

Artwork is treated as a collection and, accordingly, is not being amortized.

c) Revenue recognition

The University follows the restricted fund method whereby externally restricted revenue is recognized in the fund corresponding to the purpose for which they were contributed. Restricted revenue for which no corresponding restricted fund is presented is recognized in the General Fund in accordance with the deferral method. Unrestricted revenue is recognized in the General Fund in the year they are received or receivable if the amount can be reasonably estimated and collection is reasonably assured.

Since there is no corresponding fund, contributions restricted for the purchase of capital assets are deferred and amortized into revenue at a rate corresponding with the amortization rate for the related capital assets. In addition, funds used or restricted for special projects are deferred until there is a related expenses, at which time the funds are recognized into revenue.

Student academic fees are recognized as revenue in the year the related classes are held. Investment income is recognized as revenue when the revenue is earned.

d) Financial instruments

The University initially measures its financial assets and liabilities at fair value. The University subsequently measures all its financial assets and liabilities at cost or amortized cost, except for investments in equity instruments that are quoted in an active market, which are measured at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in the period incurred as unrealized gains or losses in the statement of operations and changes in fund balances.

Transaction costs related to financial instruments that will be subsequently measured at fair value are recognized in net income in the period incurred. Transaction costs related to financial instruments subsequently measured at amortized cost are included in the original cost of the asset or liability and recognized in excess of revenues over expenses over the life of the instrument using the straight-line method.

For financial assets measured at cost or amortized cost, the University determines whether there are indications of possible impairment. When there is an indication of impairment, and the University determines that a significant adverse change has occurred during the period in the expected timing or amount of future cash flows, a write-down is recognized in net income. A previously recognized impairment loss may be reversed to the extent of the improvement. The carrying amount of the financial asset may not be greater than the amount that would have been reported at the date of the reversal had the impairment not been recognized previously. The amount of the reversal is recognized in excess of revenues over expenses in the period the reversal occurs.

e) Hedge accounting

The University has entered into an interest rate swap agreement to manage the risk of fluctuating interest rates on its variable rate debt.

When both at the inception of a hedging relationship and throughout its term, the University has reasonable assurance that the critical terms of the hedging item and the hedged item are the same, the University may choose to designate that hedge accounting will be applied.

Interest rate swaps in qualifying hedging relationships are not recognized until their maturity. Net amounts receivable or payable on the interest rate swap are recognized as an adjustment to the interest expense on the hedged item in the period during which they accrue.

Hedge accounting may not be electively discontinued. If an interest rate swap is discontinued, any gain or loss is recognized as an adjustment to the debt and amortized to excess of revenues over expenses as interest payments are accrued.

f) Use of estimates

The preparation of the financial statements in accordance with Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the period. Significant items subject to such estimates and assumptions include the underlying estimations of useful lives of capital assets, the carrying amounts of accounts receivable and underlying provision for bad debts and the assessment of contingencies and accrued liabilities. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

	$ 2,460,904	$ 2,790,583

Pooled fund investments are held in a balanced pooled fund on behalf of the University by the University of Regina. The pooled fund has no fixed distribution rate and fund returns are based on the success of the fund manager.

On April 1, 2014, the University entered into an Advisory Services Agreement with the University of Regina. Under this Advisory Services Agreement, which expired March 31, 2016, the University of Regina provided certain administrative and financial management services to the University. In order to indemnify the University of Regina for any liabilities that may arise out of the performance of these administrative and financial management services, the University has placed a $750,000 guaranteed investment certificate in trust with the University of Regina. This guaranteed investment certificate pays interest at a rate of 1.15% in the first year, 1.35% in the second year and 1.70% in the third year. $250,000 of the indemnity was returned in April 2017 with the remainder to be returned in April 2019.

6. RISK MANAGEMENT

Exposure to credit risk, liquidity risk and market risk (consisting of interest rate risk, fair value risk, equity price risk and foreign exchange risk) arise in the normal course of the University's business.

Credit Risk

The University's principal financial assets are cash, accounts receivable and investments. The carrying amounts of the financial assets in the statement of financial position represent the University's maximum credit exposure at the statement of financial position date.

The University's credit risk is primarily attributable to accounts receivable and investments.

The amounts disclosed in the statement of financial position are net of allowance for doubtful accounts, estimated based on previous experience and an assessment of the current economic environment. With the exception of amounts receivable from the University of Regina, the University does not have significant exposure to any individual customer.

The credit risk associated with investments is minimized substantially by ensuring that these assets are held with highly rated financial management companies.

Liquidity Risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the University is unable to meet its financial obligations as they fall due. The University manages this risk by managing its cash resources and having a line of credit available to it (Note 7).

Market Risk

The University is exposed to interest rate risk on its long-term debt, the details of which are discussed in Note 9.

The University has entered into an interest rate swap agreement in order to address the interest rate risk inherent in the long-term debt, which accrues interest at prime plus 1.25%. Under the terms of the agreement, the University receives from the counterparty a monthly payment equal to the variable amount of interest on the long-term debt and pays the counterparty a fixed rate of 5.725%. The notional value of the interest rate swap is $10,625,352 with a term maturity of June 30, 2032. The impact of the rates on the long-term debt and on the interest rate swap is reflected in the statement of operations and changes in fund balances as interest on long-term debt of $715,936 (2017 - $735,645).

The University's investments are in a pooled fund (Note 5) which consists of individual equity investments and, accordingly, are subject to equity price risk.

The University is not subject to foreign exchange risk.
