

General Contractor

For Wicehotwak Limnos Consulting Services LP

Job Type	Application Deadline	Duration of Initial Contract
Contractor	Ongoing open call for 2021	Project dependent

Overview of Company

Wicehtowak Limnos Consulting Services (WLCS) is a Regina-based full services environmental consulting firm that is wholly owned by George Gordon Developments. With experience in a range of sectors we are able to manage projects from conceptualization through permitting, construction, operation, and decommissioning and offer private and corporate training in project management, environmental monitoring and regulatory processes, cross cultural awareness as well as additional tailored training programs.

WLCS clients include Canadian Federal government agencies and private organizations. Our core practice areas include Indigenous procurement, environmental site assessment, environmental monitoring, policy creation and stake holder engagement.

Job Description

WLCS is nearing another busy season for work and we are making our first call for recruiting. Starting at the end of April/early May WLCS will be involved in various projects within Saskatchewan and potentially Alberta and Manitoba.

WLCS is looking for committed, hard working, reliable, and trustworthy individuals to join our team. It is necessary for each individual to pass a drug and alcohol test during the recruitment process. Individuals must have a valid drivers license and a vehicle is preferred. Each successful individual will be signing on with WLCS as a contractor for each scope of work needed. Each job scope will require different tickets that will be site specific. The successful candidates will possess a keen eye for detail, demonstrate strong reporting skills, and enjoy working in the field for extended period of time. All job scopes will require the successful candidate to represent WLCS in a professional manner at all times.

Job Scopes: Casual Laborer, Environmental Monitor, Solar Panel Installation Technicians
